Published by Students
of
James Madison
High School
Vienna, Virginia
Volume IV

1965

This has been a year of change, a year of growth, a year for learning and maturing, for getting to know ourselves and others, for becoming more than what we were. Madison, too, has changed—in bole, branch and bark. Still, it retains much of the old. Beneath the mutating landscape stretch the roots of tradition.

This year has brought more students, more buildings, new courses. But it has brought an even greater change—the change that comes over each of us as we grow. On all of us, change has left its mark.

The 1965 Montpelier staff has attempted to capture this spirit of growth. The book itself has changed. It has a new face, a different personality. We hope you find in it some of what this year has been for you.

Today is not yesterday; we ourselves change. How then can our works and thoughts, if they are always to be the fittest, continue always the same? Change indeed is painful, yet ever needful; if memory has its force and worth, so also has hope.

—Carlyle

One of the tragedies of life is the murder of a beautiful theory by a brutal gang of facts.

—La Rochefoucauld

Life is the art of drawing without an eraser.

—Christian

If there is no wind—row.

—Polish Proverb

And tired of aimless circling
in one place.
Steer straight off after something into space.

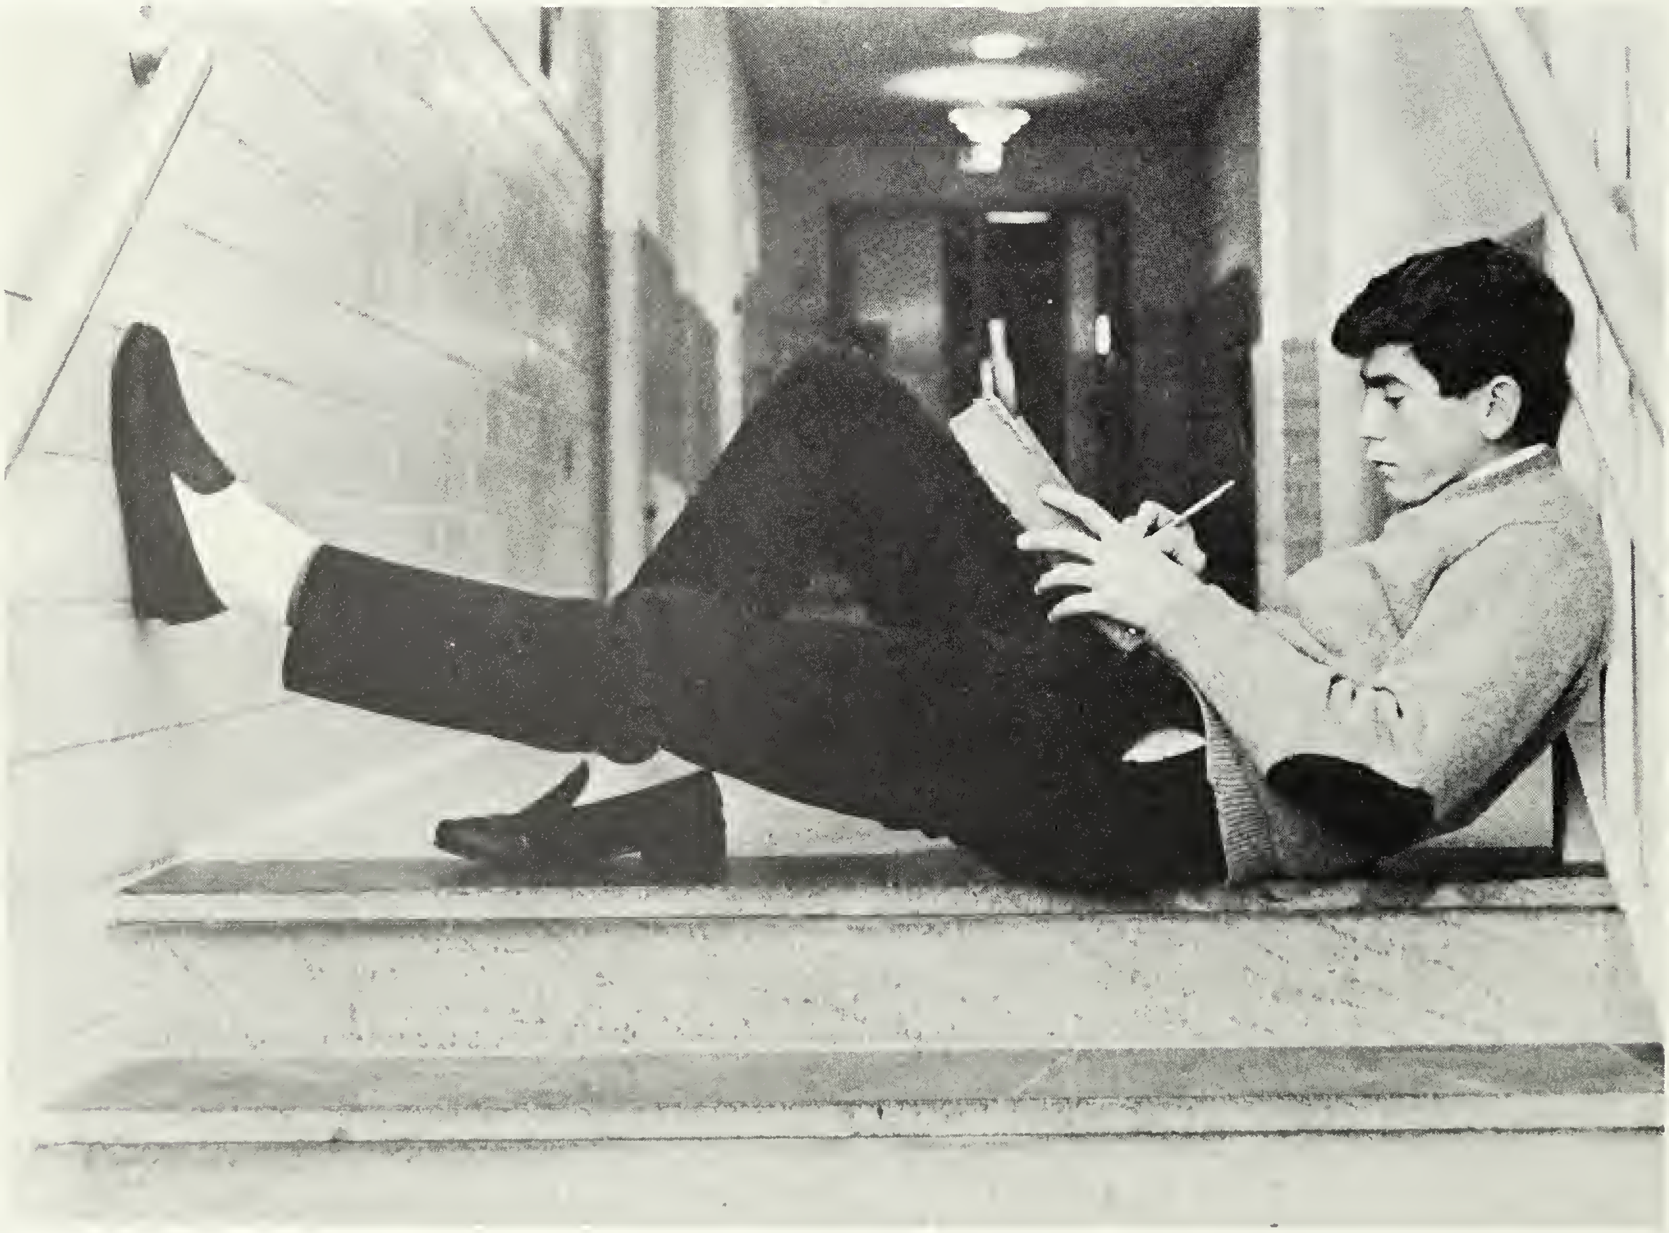
—Robert Frost

Vision is the art of seeing things invisible.

—Swift



When you know all the answers,
You haven't asked all the questions.

—Stebbins

Change everything
except your loves.

—Voltaire

It is easier to suffer in silence if you are sure someone is watching.

—Warren

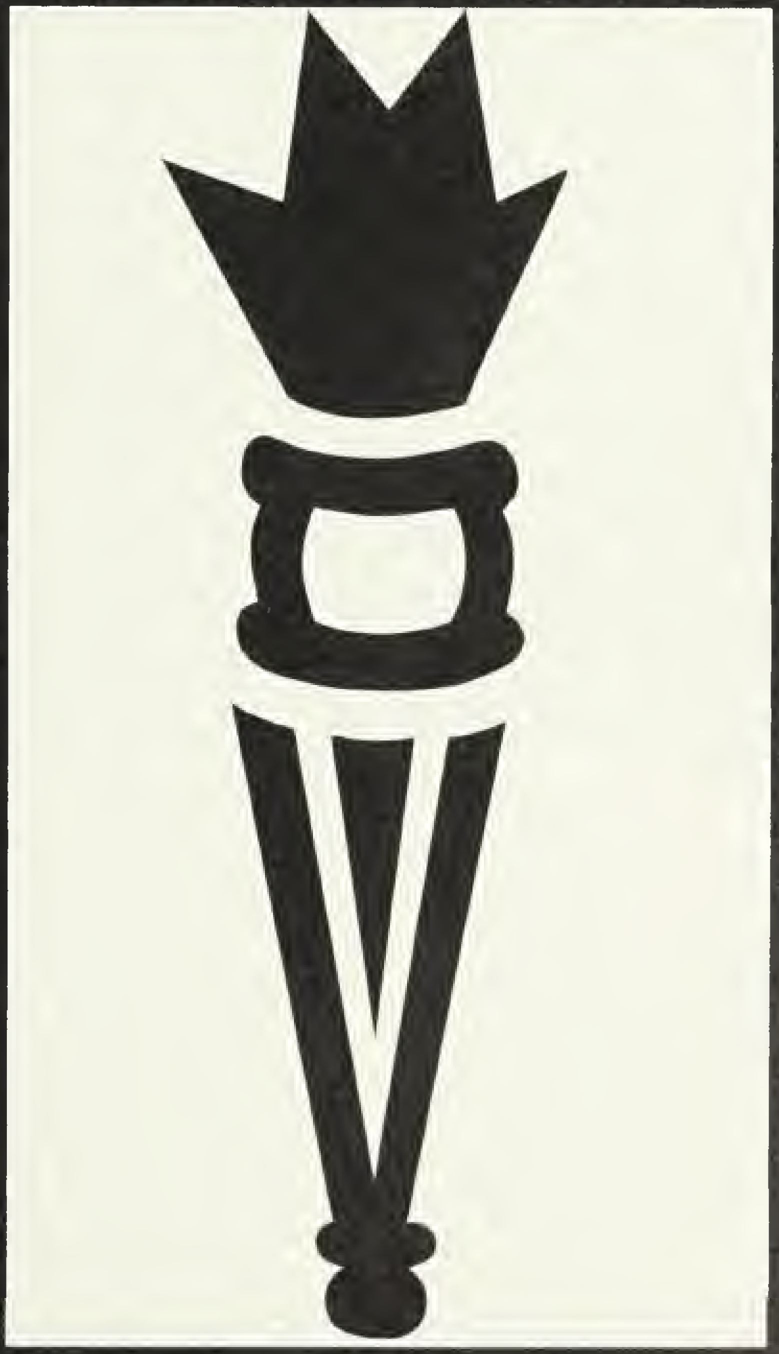
A change came o'er the spirit of my dream.

—Byron

Character is what you are in the dark.
—Dwight L. Moody

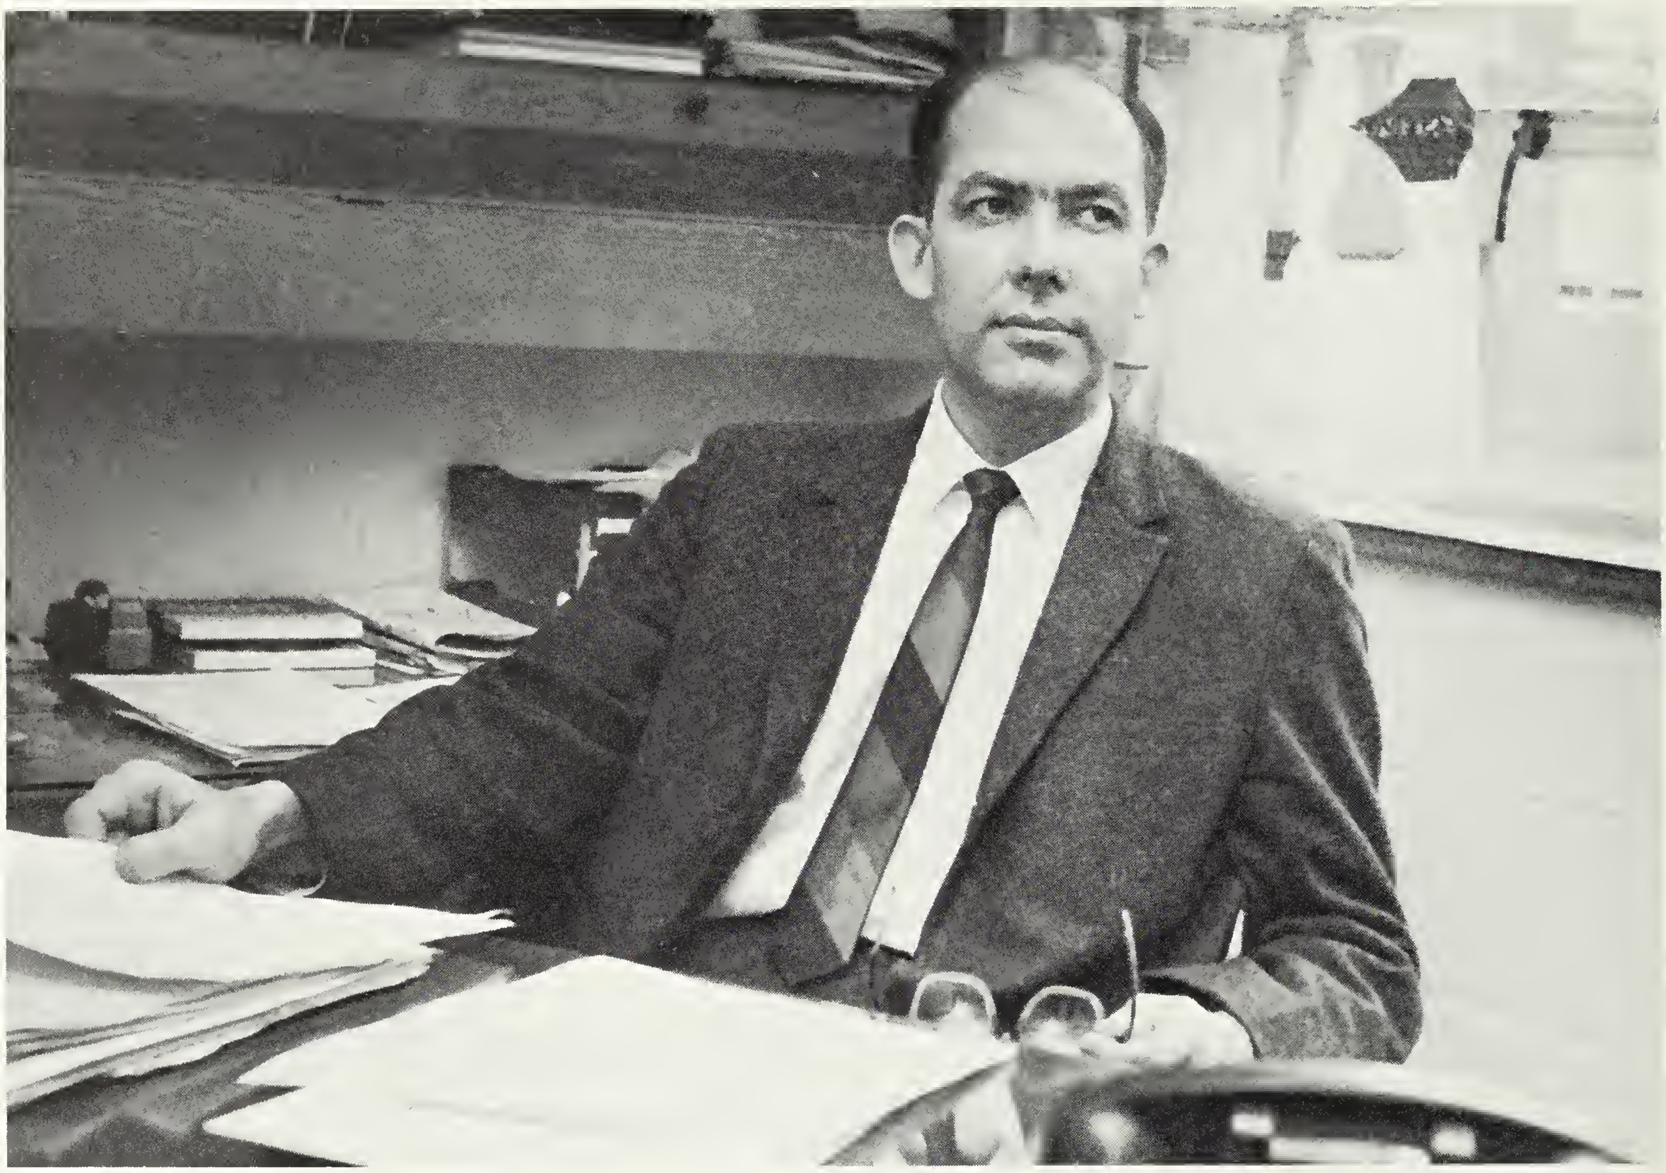
I am being driven forward
Into an unknown land.
The pass grows steeper,
The air colder and sharper.
A wind from my unknown goal
Stirs the strings
Of expectation.

—Dag Hammarskjold



ACADEMICS

Principals Co-ordinate School Activities And



Mr. Bonner

Mr. Bonner, a graduate of the University of Alabama, has been the principal of James Madison since it opened six years ago. His job is to co-ordinate properly all school life and to round out the curriculum so that it provides an opportunity for one of the best educations available to a high school student.

In furthering this goal, he has considerably expanded the scope and depth of the academic background—advancing new teaching methods, accelerated course, and student exchange programs.

The innovations include many experiments in team teaching, such as the American Civilization course which combines the study of American history and of American literature. The business department now offers Clerical Office Practice for advanced business students, a two-hour course in operating office machinery. Also, this year and last, saw the introduction of two advanced placement courses—one in English and one in chemistry. When such courses were still in the emboyonic stages, new teaching methods, A.L.M. languages and the "new" math had already been established at Madison.

In addition to these changes in curriculum, Mr. Bonner has overseen a great number of alterations in Madison's appearance: English huts, football lights, portable bleachers, baseball dugouts, and a new wing to the building.

In his six years as principal, he has seen Madison grow and has worked at directing her course.

Advance Quality Of Academics And Student Life

As new methods of teaching are introduced, changes have to be made. Mr. Dozier, assistant principal in charge of instruction, coordinates county policy and individual teachers. Mr. Dozier, a graduate of the University of North Carolina, holds A.B. and M.A. degrees.

Mr. Williams, Assistant Principal

Mr. Williams became the new assistant principal in charge of administration this year. He has been here since the school opened, but until last year, taught Biology. Among his other duties Mr. Williams is in charge of discipline. He acquired an A.B. at the University of Virginia and his Masters in Education at the University of West Virginia.

Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Walker are head secretaries in charge of Administration and Guidance respectively. They do a good deal of the tons of paper work that always has to be done in a school.

Mrs. Rossow was the new nurse this year. She administered the eye and ear tests and took all the weights and heights. She also gave the tuberculin test and comforted sick students.

Because of the growing number of students, two permanent study hall teachers had to be hired. Mrs. Harris and Mrs. Whipple serve here.

Delicious and nourishing meals are provided by the cafeteria staff. Headed by Mrs. Branner, they do an excellent job of getting everyone fed every day.

Mr. Jones and the custodial staff work hard to keep the school clean and in good functioning order. They also keep the huts livable during the winter months.

ORGANIZATIONS

S.C.A. Officers, Cabinet, Lead Student Body,

Regulate Activities

Under the direction of President Bob Brandler (left), the Student Co-operative Association worked to improve Madison. S.C.A. promoted welfare programs such as Cans for Christmas; sponsored fund raising campaigns like the magazine drive; and far surpassed their goals.

Other projects included International Week, the point system, the Mardi Gras dance, constitution revision, and a drive to stop smoking in the rest rooms. This year's Student Council took the first steps toward establishing an Honor Court at Madison.

Homeroom Representatives were elected twice during the year. These representatives make up the bulk of the S.C.A. membership.

S.C.A. OFFICERS: David O'Ryan, Treasurer; Bev Hardy, Vice President; Marie Mayer, Secretary.

Leaders In Drives, Special Projects

The Senior Council is the governing body of the Senior class. It consists of the class officers, one representative, and one alternate from each of the fifteen American government classes.

The council arranged bake sales and dances which were the chief source of money for Seniors. Each government class served as an administrative unit to keep students aware of dates for ordering announcements, caps and gowns, etc.

Honor Society Promotes Academics By Aiding

Library And Initiating Scholarship Fund

Character . . . Scholarship . . . Leadership . . . Service . . . these are the tenets established by the National Honor Society; the James Madison chapter has been in existence since the school began.

In accord with the society's tradition of service, it has initiated a book check program to cut down traffic in the library and to aid in regulating the book lending system. With the support of sponsor, Miss Cordle, committees were formed to raise funds for a scholarship award, available to rising Seniors. Nor were traditional projects forgotten: the fall academic achievements banquet, the honor roll bulletin board, and the surprise inductions ceremony. The James Madison point-system, fostered by the Honor Society, has been incorporated in the student government constitution.

The American Field Service is a national organization to bring foreign students to the United States. Attending Madison this year was Edmond Pereira from Bombay, India. The Madison chapter of A.F.S. would like to bring two students here next year.

Many A.F.S. activities are of a fund-raising nature in order to finance the exchange program. The two primary sources of income are A.F.S. discount cards, sold each spring, and the horse show sponsored in May. Other projects undertaken were to bring the foreign student closer to those at Madison. Square dances and assemblies included not only Edmond, but also exchange students from other area high schools.

Heritage Has "Personality All Its Own"

HERITAGE, the school's creative magazine, gives all Madison students an opportunity to display their talent. A staff of thirteen assisted editor Ann Miller in compiling the winter and spring editions of HERITAGE. With the counsel of Miss Morgan, whom Ann refers to as "indispensable," they felt each of the two editions was imbued with "a personality all its own."

Two teas were given, one before the distribution of each issue, in honor of students who had made either a literary or an artistic contribution. Prizes were awarded to outstanding entries in the areas of poetry, prose, and art. On the facing page is the winning poem in the winter HERITAGE.

The Hunter

He enters the forest of life
To stalk his prey, his one ideal.
The deer, so quiet and motionless
With her young, detects his footsteps.
Onward he comes, he thrives for
This moment. His one thought —
To kill.
The doe steals silently through the
Trees, yet it is sighted by the hunter.
One shot . . . . . . and the prize
Is his alone.

Now, with the night, all is still in
The forest of life. Yet in the darkness is
The cry of the fawn.

Assistant Editors of Hawk Talk, Bill Davis, news, Eddie Carter, sports, Chris Getlein, features, and Rachel Knoeller prepare pages for next edition.

Vibrant Account Of Madison School Life

This year Melissa Pollard edited the Hawk Talk, and she with the rest of the staff innovated a new head, a six-page paper, and an insert called Roto. This insert contained articles pertaining to teenage problems, such as college admission, and teenage fads.

Editorially the newspaper dealt with a variety of school problems such as the honor court, smoking in the restrooms, cafeteria lunches, and school spirit.

Editors Eddie Carter, sports editor; Rachel Knoeller, club editor; and Bill Davis, news editor worked closely with Melissa Pollard and Mrs. Donohoe the faculty sponsor, to publish a comprehensive account of school life.

Other staff members are sitting: Betsy Stonley, Marion McAmis, Jane Walker, standing: Ann Bartholomew, John Duncan, Barbora van der vate, Shoron Studt, Ken Cowden.

Business Department Tends Publication Finances

Morion McAmis, Tony Conway, Lindo Reis.

The Business Department tends to all financial matters of three publications. They sell block subscriptions, and distribute the newspaper and yearbook. They sell ads to Vienna merchants for Montpelier and Hawk Talk to aid in financing.

Another function of the Business Department is to correspond with other schools by trading newspapers.

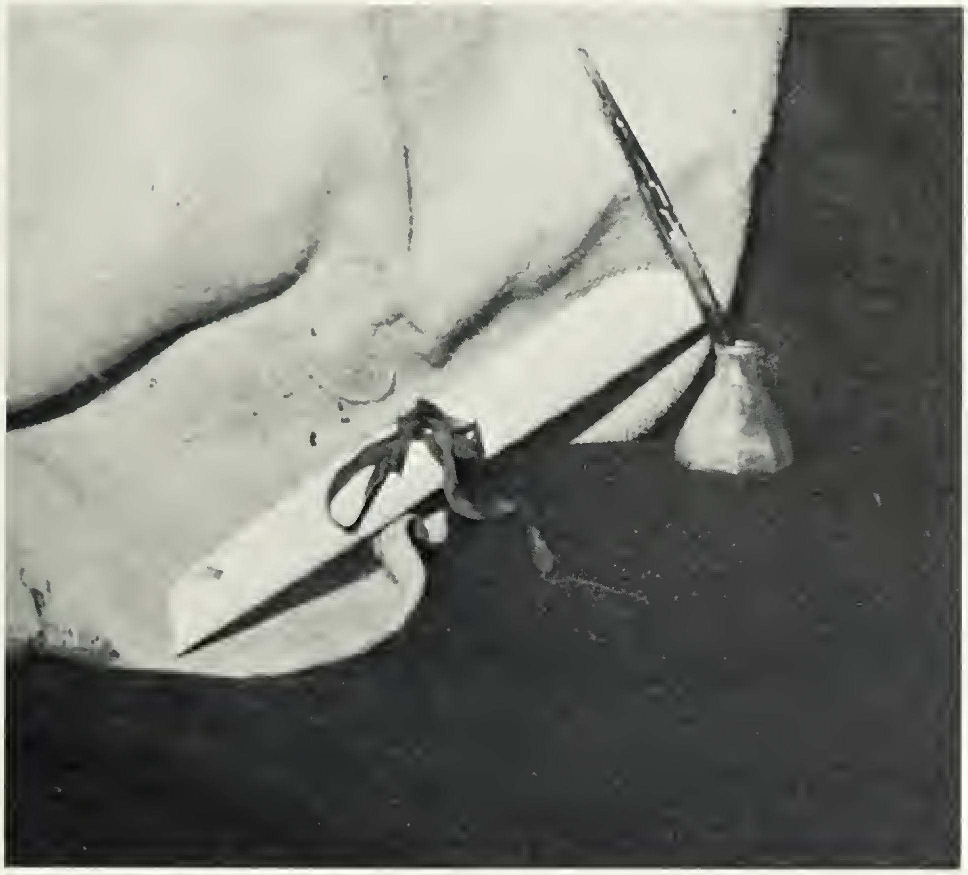
Camera Club Photographs School Life

"Smile now, this is a candid. Look natural." FLASH! "Thank you. Copies will be available next week." These are typical comments from the members of the camera club, a profit making organization that takes pictures at almost all school activities. Pictures are offered to school and area publications and those not used are sold.

Members have their own darkroom, developing materials and several cameras.

Ronnie Jenkins, Willem Kymmell, Bob Myers, John Boeck, John Needham, John Stronge.

Quill And Scroll Honors Journalists



Quill and Scroll is the National Honorary Society for Journalists. Members were inducted twice during the year—at a summer picnic at Burke Lake and again at Christmas time.

To become a member one must have a "C" average and earn at least 100 points working on one of the three school publications or on the business staff.

Each member receives a journalistic magazine which contains articles pertaining to all aspects of high school journalism, written by experts in this field.

Performances Earn Standing Ovations

"If the quality of the performance were to determine the size of the audience, they would have filled Constitution Hall. I doubt if you could hear a more inspired and inspiring high school performance anywhere—even if you went as far as Vienna, Austria." This praise was bestowed by Irvin Lowens, Music Editor of the Washington Evening Star, after a Madrigal Concert in Washington, D. C.

This year the Madrigal Singers made their second New York Tour and also performed for the Northern Virginia Music Teachers Association, Georgetown Visitation School, the Archbold Estate, and Madison College. In concert with the choir at Marymount College, they brought about the first standing ovation from the students in the history of the college. The chamber ensemble performed in five languages, and their repertoire this year was abundant in contemporary music representing works of local composers.

The concert choir did a study in music for divided double-chorus and featured the works of Schutz, Gabriele, Lotti, and Mendelssohm. The Concert Choir was often augmented by the Brass Choir. The Concert Choir gave a special concert for all the humanities teachers in Fairfax County.

This year the music department sponsored its first musical, My Fair Lady. The students received standing ovations from all four audiences—the same response which greeted them after the Christmas concert.

Mr. Yohe Directs

". . . then rows one, two, and three split away and the ones left keep pace while the majorettes swing around into the front . . ." planning and executing a halftime show is quite a bit of work as Mr. Yohe and the marching band know.

The marching band is composed of members of both the Concert and the Symphonic bands. As well as performing for halftime shows during football season, they have marched in numerous parades including the Shenandoah Apple Blossom Festival.

The Concert Band, which is primarily underclassmen, specialized in the "Big Band Sound" this year. It participated in the Northern Virginia Band Festival where it received a superior rating.

Mainly upperclassmen play in the Symphonic Wind Ensemble. This group plays grade VI music, which is arranged for college bands. They specialize in jazz, popular music, and music written specifically for band. They also received a 'superior' rating in the Northern Virginia Band Festival.

Eleven Madison students participated in the All-State Band this year, and from these Eldon Pender was selected to play in the All Virginia Band in Harrisonburg.

The instrumental music department went to York, Pennsylvania, to present an exchange concert with the West York Band. They also provided the music for My Fair Lady under the direction of Mr. Yohe. This was the first broadway musical ever presented at Madison.

Majorettes, Drill Team Adjuvate Band

A girls' drill team was formed this year as an auxiliary to the marching band. During football season, they performed with the band at halftime shows. Later, they developed into a distinct group.

A colorguard of four girls leads the drill team. They have also presented the flag at all assemblies and marched with the band at parades.

The majorettes with captain Linda Gabaldon performed in halftime shows along with the band and the drill team. They marched with the band in various parades including the Shenandoah Apple Blossom Festival in the spring.

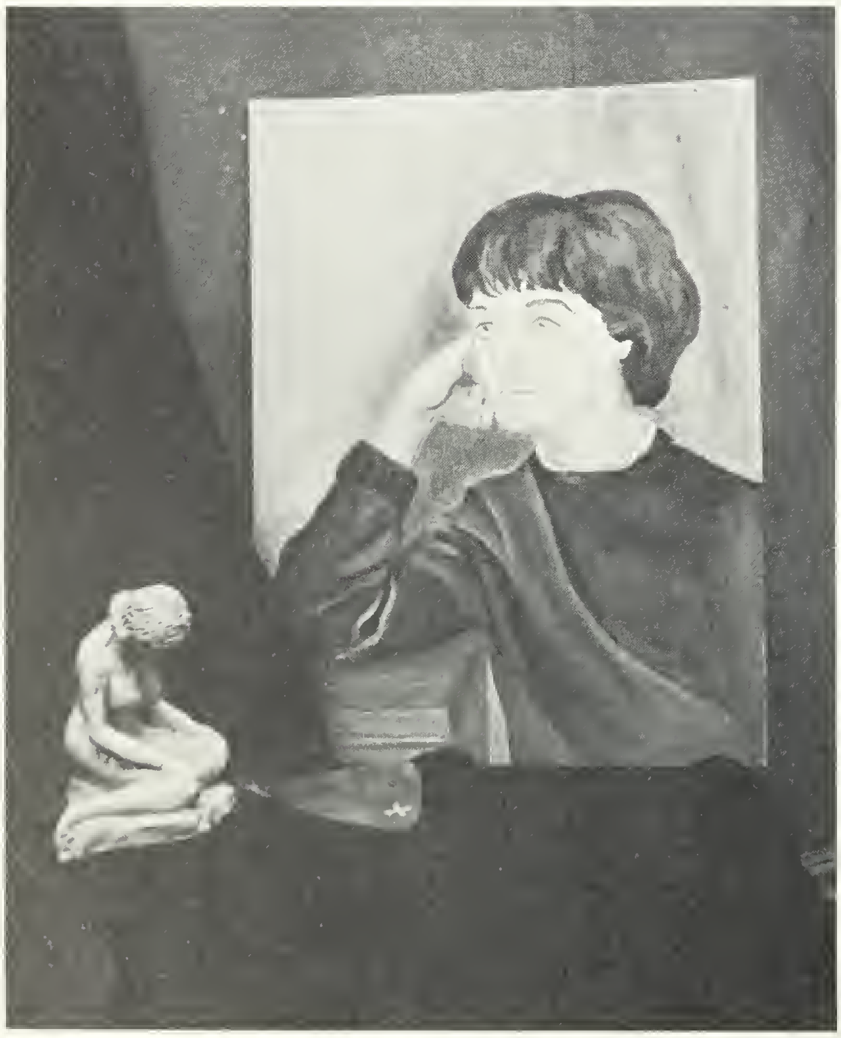
Art Club Sketches Nearby Landmarks



The purpose of Kallophile is "To introduce and interest students in various aspects of art, to utilize and experiment with different materials, and to develop the interests and talents of the students."

The year's activities were highlighted by sketching trips to Dulles Airport and Georgetown. Other trips were made to Great Falls, Vienna, and surrounding areas.

Projects for the year were a Spring Art Festival in which students from the whole school participated, and the presentation to the library of books.

In the fall and again in the spring the members of the Future Teacher's Association were given the opportunity to teach classes at Flint Hill Elementary School. Two students were assigned to each class and were allowed both to observe normal classes in progress and to teach under the regular teacher's supervision.

Also in the spring, Club members took a field trip to Madison College. They were given a tour of the College and were told of the various degrees and opportunities Madison offers in the teaching field. Other Virginia teacher's colleges were discussed at meeting but not visited.

President Sharon Upchurch helped to rewrite the constitution for the Fairfax County Future Teachers of America. The Club also undertook such projects as "apples for teachers" and a bulletin board honoring various James Madison teachers.

The purpose of the Future Nurses of America is to give its members a better understanding of all medical fields and their requirements. The club is made up of girls who are considering entering some phase of the medical profession.

The club took two field trips, one to Fairfax Hospital and one to Georgetown Hospital. In each, they were given a general tour of the hospital. While they were not actually allowed in the patients' rooms, they were shown the store rooms, equipment, and the rest of the hospital's facilities.

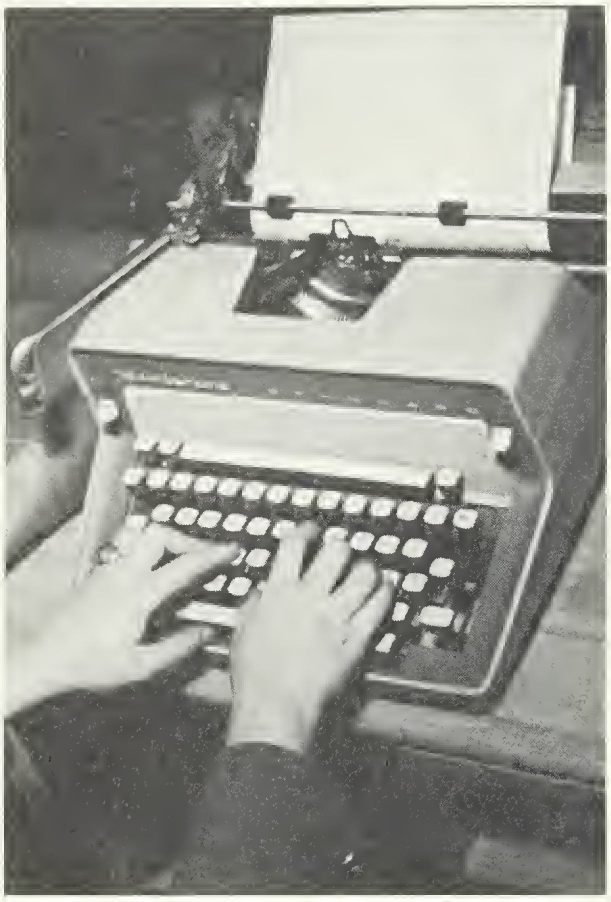
Seniors Prepare For Business Career



V.O.T. (Vocational Office Training) is an organization for seniors interested in business as a career. They receive training in the use of modern office machinery such as the key punch, adding machines, duplicators and electric typewriters. The girls take this course sometime in the morning in addition to other senior courses, then go to their respective office jobs in the afternoon. The average work week is 25 hours. At their jobs the girls take dictation, do bookkeeping, answer telephones, and various other typical business jobs.

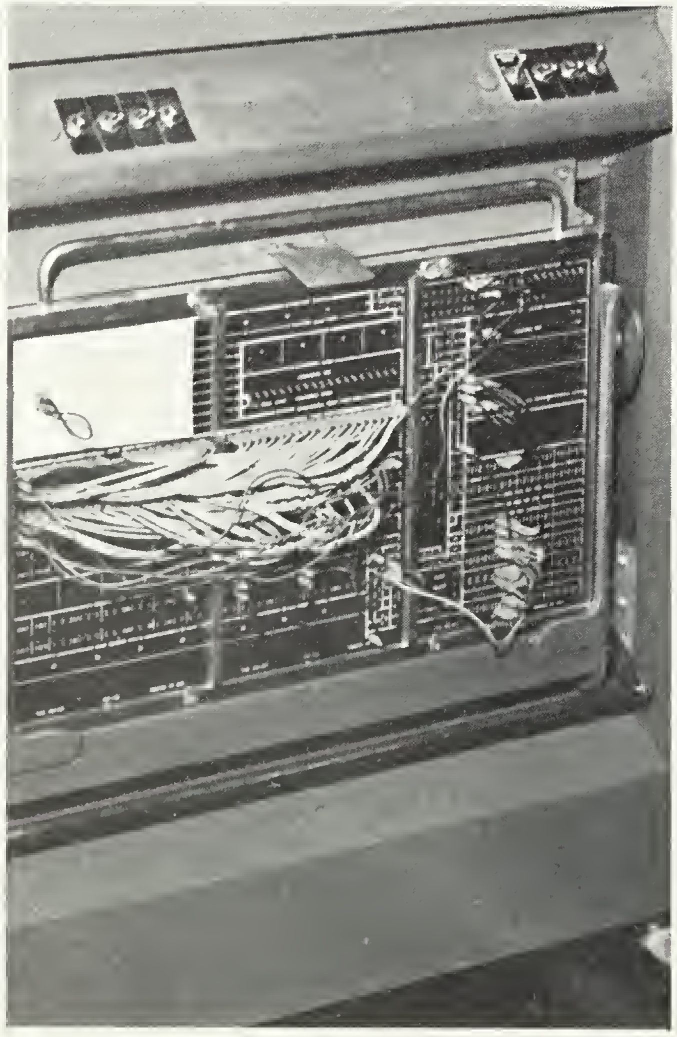
FBLA Combines Service With Business



The Madison Future Business Leaders Club, affiliated with the national organization, meets once a month to learn business techniques and practices. The meetings vary in purpose; some are social, some educational.

Leaders in the business world and teachers from Temple School gave lectures on key punch and computer operations.

Some members of the Club also participated in the Strayer Business College typing and stenographic contests.

Under social activities, the club had a Christmas party and a Valentine's Day party. The club also sponsored several philantrophic projects—at Thanksgiving they served a complete meal for a family. Later, at Christmas, they visited another needy family and took food and toys for the children.

Rocket Club Studies Missile Technology

This year, unlike the ones in the past, the Rocket Club concentrated their efforts on one main rocket. The rocket was scheduled to be fired off at Camp Pickett in the last month of school or the first few weeks of summer.

The Club had used the Army "Amateur Rocket Leasin" plan as the basic for their rocket plans. Aside from elementary problems such as center of gravity, material strength, and location of the parts, the Club's main difficulty was in the parachute release system. The Club decided to use a zinc-sulfur fuel, one commonly used in amateur rockets.

Along with the construction of the rocket, the Club was concerned with the mechanics of the ship, i.e. Newtonian laws of motion. Mr. Siemens, the sponsor, lectured frequently to the Club on missile technology. He also was able to obtain two movies; one on "Engineering as a Career" and one on "Missile Technology."

Science Club Stimulates Individual Study

This year the Science Club gave students a chance to further studies in their individual areas of scientific interest. The members divided into four groups: astronomy, biology, chemistry, and physics.

The group concerned with chemistry worked on crystallography and hopes to build an X-ray defraction tube in future years. The astronomy section worked on building a telescope. A guest speaker explained the grinding of the mirror and the different types of lens. Another guest speaker spoke of the control of injurious wildlife.

To further interest in doing individual projects, the Science Club sponsored the annual Science Fair. Members also went to area grade schools and explained how to do science projects.

The Club, under President Lynn Miller, joined a National Science Club organization this year.

Discussion Group Sponsors Mock Election

For the first year at Madison, interested students and teachers intitiated the Political Science Club—designed to further understanding of political theory. Membership in the club is by application and appointment. Members gave lectures on the Prince by Machiavelli and in later meetings interesting round table discussions took place.

Since this was an election year, the club sponsored a mock election. The voting was very official with registration being compulsory before voting. The actual voting and counting was supervised by the members, and the results were within 1% of the national results.

The club, in its second year, explored the realms of higher mathematics—concentrating on the concept of calculus. Math Club members worked mental puzzles, solved problems, and searched for formulas—such as the formula which will yield the area beneath the curve of a function of any degree.

Guest speakers talked about simplified computer designs, mathematics principles and operational methods.

Latin Club Has Festive Roman Banquet

Although Latin is the least popular language in schools today, the Latin Club is very active. In the fall members of the Latin Club attended the Virginia Classical Leagues in Charlottesville and next year they are planning to have a candidate for state office. At Christmas time members of the club and their parents attended a dinner at Gusty's, an Italian restaurant.

However, the biggest project of the year was the Roman Banquet. Latin students and their guests dressed in togas and reclined on pillows while eating a three course meal. The festivities included Roman games, gladitorial fights and a slave auction.

Nancy Schell dons toga for banquet.

OLD GERMAN TO

Most German Club members would describe their activities as Wunderbar! They began the year with a long hike, a Wanderung—walking along the canal, singing German folk songs.

In the middle of October they held their fourth annual Fashing Party. It is an event which takes place throughout the country of Germany during the month of October. It is very similar to the Mardi Gras, with costumes, dancing, and singing.

Ordering German food from a German menu was a new experience for some, but enjoyable for all, when the club visited a German restaurant in the spring.

Another long-hike along the canal to Great Falls ended the German Club's busy year.

Thespians Promote Interest In Drama

This year has been the first full year for the National Thespian Troupe 2541. An outgrowth of "Wig and Rouge," the main purpose of this troupe is to create an interest, in secondary schools, for the dramatic arts. Through membership and special awards, Thespians also recognize those persons of outstanding dramatic ability.

The plays sponsored by Thespians this year have been "Romanoff and Juliet," the fall production, and a series of three one-act plays: "Overtones," "Pyramis and Thisbe," and "Boy with a Cart." "Boy with a Cart" was performed at the Northern Virginia One Act Play Festival where it received an excellent rating.

Thespians have used their profits for stage improvements.

Madison Debate Has Record Season

The James Madison Debate Team completed the year with the best record in the school's history; 27 wins and 12 losses. Thirteen students, more than had ever participated before, took part in this year's debate.

Actual tournaments began in February and ran through March with Madison debating each of the other schools in the northen section of the Northern Virginia Conference. This year Madison fielded not only Varsity Affirmative and Negative Teams, but also junior varsity teams down to three J.V. affirmative and negative. The Varsity Negative was defeated only once and was tied for first place in its section.

Madison Students Through Service Clubs

Can drive . . . fashion show . . . Safety week . . . Sadie Hawkins. The Madisonettes is one of the most energetic clubs at Madison. Their projects benefit the school, the community, the individual.

Madisonettes take an active part in charity drives. At each meeting, they collected canned foods for the District Welfare Dept., and they promoted an in school drive for the cerebral palsy fund.

At Christmas time, they visited a home for the elderly, to sing carols. Each week in the spring two members visited the school for retarded children. Spring also brought a fashion show, the Sadie Hawkins dance and a "date-approved driving" week. The Madisonettes helped other organizations by turning salesman. They won the AFS discount card campaign sales to help finance the student exchange program, and they sold tickets to a McLean sponsored ballet for the children hospital benefit.

Help Faculty, School And Community

Service . . . to the school and to the community . . . that is the aim and the purpose of the Madison Club. Its fifty members are selected by their scholastic record and willingness to apply themselves in aiding the school and community. Qualified Sophomore, Junior, and Senior boys are admitted into the Club.

This Club has been responsible for taking tickets at all home games, selling cokes at the plays, serving at school banquets, and parking cars at all school events. They have sold tickets for other organizations and were co-sponsors of the Driving Rodeo along with their companion club, the Madisonettes. Sock Hops and Games were also sponsored by this active group.

G.A.A. Encourages Athletics, Sportsmanship

On guard . . . advance . . . retreat . . . lunge! Fencing was one of the activities sponsored by the Girl's Athletic Association this year. During the fall, Miss Dean gave lessons after school.

Another activity sponsored by GAA was the selling of concessions at all home games.

This year, the club's main project was the buying of a duplicator for the girls' physical education department. Other projects included the Mother-Daughter Banquet and the annual campout. In the spring, lots were drawn for secret pals, and in the summer their identifies were revealed.

Service And Fun Characterized By Hippigue

Although the horse club is small, it has been very active. In the fall, the members held their annual Gymkhana, a pleasure horse show.

Club members also took several field trips to the Potomic Horse Center where they were given riding instructions. These lessons were conducted by special instructors from England. A tack cleaning party was also held around the middle of the year.

All bakesale profits made by the Club were given to the library to buy books. Besides this, a donation of one hundred dollars was made to help support the United States Equestrian Team.

Clubs Promote Interest In Chess, Coins

Coin Club

Sitting: Larry Balkin, Steve Crosson, Scott Reid, Rick O'Ryan, Jeff Travis. Standing: Richard Majors, Greg Edwards, Pat O'Neil, Richard Cross, Bill Knight, Rick Savio, Joel Carpenter, Jimmy Goodkind—President.

The Numismatologists at Madison finally have some place to go. A coin club was started this year for students interested in coin collecting. Jimmy Goodkind was elected as the first president, and when he moved Richard Cross became president in his place.

The club exchanged and studied rare coins and took field trips to Annandale and Alexandria to view displays of valuable coins.

Chess Club

Madison's Chess Club is a member of the Northern Virginia Chess League, a confederation of fourteen area high school chess clubs. This year Don Simpson of Madison was president of the league.

Each member club maintains a team composed of the five best players, and each team plays every other team twice.

Madison also had several intramural tournaments throughout the year, and taught any interested student how to play the game.

SPORTS

Cheerleaders Add Zest To Varsity Sports

The Varsity Cheerleaders did many things to bring pep and spirit to Madison students. Marching through the halls are Marie Moyer, Sherry Rutledge, Lynn Pierce and Donna Stickle. Sherry and Donna are riding one of the "victory" buses. Joyce Gazes doing a split jump yelps for joy. Pam Williams and Joan Thomas receive bouquets at their last game as seniors. In the rainy game with Yorktown Marie Moyer gets sopping wet. In more pleasant weather Donna Cross and Marie yell a "goooooo-go-go-go" cheer.

Madison Warhawks Finish '64-'65 Season

The 1964-65 Warhawks finished this year with a 2-1-7 season. The Madison defense allowed 165 points to the opposition, and the Hawks offense gained a total of 56 points.

The team started the season with a heartbreaking loss to Groveton 7-6. The new football lights were initiated September 18, in our first home game. Although the Warhawk team was downed by the Fairfax Rebels 25-0, Madison spirit and hustle never waned.

After three consecutive losses, the Warhawk team defeated Woodson in a 14-6 victory. In the follow-game, Lee gave us our greatest defeat, 27-0.

In a very wet game, the Madison players tried very hard to break through Yorktown's defense. The game ended with a tie score, 0-0.

After losing the Homecoming game to McLean, 20-6, the team slipped past Falls Church with a 15-13 victory. Highest scorers were Butch Decker 13 points, followed by Barry Williams with 9 points.

Freshman Team Duplicates 3-1-2 Standing

Freshman and J. V. Football teams made a fine showing this year with 3-1-2 and 5-3 records, respectively.

The J.V. had a good squad, both offensively and defensively. Their record-setting season began slowly with two losses, one to Fairfax and one to Stuart; but they sparked at the next game, beating Woodson, 12-0. In their next victory, against Lee, the J.V. played one of their best games of the season, winning 20-7. By winning the last three games of the season, they set a J.V. record of five victories and three losses.

The Freshman team's record, which duplicated last year's, was the result of the team's excellent running, blocking, and passing. Individuals who showed good performance were Jerry Hoggat, Bill Andrews, Ronnie Slingerman, and John Hibbs.

Varsity Hockey Displays Strong Defense;

Girl's Varsity and J.V. Hockey teams finished their seasons with 5-1-4 and 6-0-2 records respectively. The Varsity girls did not score much, but displayed a strong defense—fullback Diane Pound winning the most-valuable player award and half-back Jane Monk, the most-improved. Their strongest game, against Lee, was not a win, yet the quality of their stickwork was "excellent."

The aggressive J.V. team members were termed county champions after an undefeated season. The strong defense allowed only one score against them. Yet the goal made by Lee did not prevent a victory and the J.V.'s came out ahead 2-1.

Cagehawks Face Stiff Competition,

The 1965 Cagehawks played a tough 17 games with stiff competition from their many opponents. Lack of height, together with varsity inexperience, seemed to be the biggest problem facing the players.

After losing the first six games, Madison displayed fine speed and rebounding strength in downing Marshall 51-40. This proved to be the only victory of the Warhawk season.

Losing the last series of games gave Madison a record of 1-16, placing them in 13th place in the league. The most valuable player was Butch Decker. Terry Poole scored the highest number of points.

The game with Groveton was one of the most exciting of the season. Groveton won by one point after Ed Jernigan's basket from a rebound in the last second was disqualified as the buzzer was ringing.

All-Sophomore J.V. Team Has 7-8 Season

The Junior Varsity Team composed entirely of Sophomores, was victorious in seven of fifteen games, despite previous inexperience.

The first two games were losses, but the team continued to practice and work out new plays which helped them in later games. They managed to break Marshall's and Woodson's defenses, and won with close scores, 38-36, and 32-29.

The team lost several close games, including a heartbreaking loss to Falls Church by one point.

In the last game, against Fairfax, with the score tied and only two seconds to go, Ed Ochs landed a basket to give Madison a dramatic victory, and a seasonal record of seven wins and eight losses.

Although the girls' varsity team won only one game, they played several very close ones. In the Stuart and Ft. Hunt games, the Varsity lost by only a few points, made in the last seconds of the games.

The J.V. team earned first place in the county, with an undefeated record. Offensive players scored 40 points in their best game while defensive players held opponents to low scores.

The most valuable varsity player was Ellen Mott, who broke two records—number of points scored in a game, and number of points scored in a season. The most improved varsity player was Rose Sheats.

Both of the girls' softball teams had excellent seasons this year. The Varsity won eight games and lost only two, to tie the county championship. The J.V. had an undefeated record placing them first in the county, for Junior Varsity teams.

The Varsity players after a year's experience working together displayed strong team work. Judy Young, the only Varsity pitcher, had to pitch every game this season.

The J.V. team won many of its games by wide margins. The highest score was against Fort Hunt, Madison winning 28-1. Cheryl Dellinger pitched two no-hitters, against previously undefeated Fairfax and Herndon.

Fencing, Tennis Add Variety To Sports

Tennis players jockied for position on the 10-member team. Number one is Curt Rathburn, followed by Marion McAmis, Bob Hutchins, Bob Tignor, and Tony Conway. This is the first year students have been successful in organizing a tennis team and by next year they should be playing inter-school matches. They have weekly practices, using area courts.

Fencing, a sport involving much endurance and strength, was introduced at Madison through the Girls' athletic program. Equipment was purchased with funds raised by two sophomore P.E. classes. Next year it will be part of the regular curriculum.

Romantic Comedy Heads Drama Season

Love-struck Romanoff, Ronnie Manville, beams at Juliette, Chris Williams.

"Romanoff and Juliette" is a romantic comedy by Peter Ustinov. The play spoofs international diplomacy in the cold war and points up the irony in human relations. It was presented by the Junior class and the Madison chapter of National Thespians. Drama Coach Patricia Walton was assisted by student director Winnie Whipple, technical director Bob Oldham, and stage manager, Carl Davis.

The play's end shows the idiosyncrasies of life: the son of the Russian ambassador and the daughter of the American ambassador marry; the Russian spy becomes an ascetic; the young capitalist and the Communist devotee fall in love; and the ambassador's stern wife buys a French hat.

Reconciled

Madison's Music department enchanted audiences at four performances with its first dramatic production, the Lerner and Lowe musical, My Fair Lady. Singing leads were all members of the Madrigal group. The pit band included string instruments. Kathy Gravlin, a Madison student, instructed the dancers, using original choreography. The music was directed by Mr. Kenneth Yohe (orchestra) and Mr. Don Haines Guidotti (voice).

The back stage crews built three-sided sets to represent the streets of London, Higgins' study, and the Ascot race track. The art work was directed by former Madison art instructor, Mr. Robert Tidwell. Construction manager was Mr. Norman Chaudet. The costumes and sets were taken from the movie.

The spring production, An Evening of Contrast, was a series of three one-act plays: Overtones, Pyramus and Thisbe, and Boy With a Cart.

Overtones is a melodrama presenting a side of human nature which is usually kept hidden. Harriet and Margaret, two long time friends, have a so-called friendly chat. Hitty, only visible to Harriet, and Maggie, only visible to Margaret, speak what the two women are really thinking about each other underneath their pretentious friendship.

The mock play of the tragedy of Pyramus and Thisbe, a segment of Shakespeare's Midsummer's Night Dream, was the comical highlight of An Evening of Contrast. Pyramus and Thisbe are separated by a wall (played by John Jamerson) through which the two see each other and whisper love messages. They plan to escape and do so safely, but Thisbe thinks Pyramus has been killed and vice versa. Consequently, they each commit suicide. Six fumbling rustics attempt to produce, with all sincerity and seriousness, the tragedy of Pyramus and Thisbe, only to receive rollicking laughter from the audience.

Boy With a Cart, Madison's entry in the Northern Virginia One-Act Play Festival, won an excellent rating.

This Christopher Fry play follows a young boy and his mother on a journey through five countries. The boy is in quest of a place to found his church. A 30-member chorus represents the people of the various countries and reflects the changing mood of the action.

'Friendship Through International Understanding'

"Friendship through International Understanding" was the theme of Madison's third International week. In broadening this year's program, the S.C.A. made a move away from embassy personnel and other speakers who might be bound by protocol. Our own Col. W. T. Bigger, head of the science department, talked about the Cadillo (strong man) in South American politics. One speaker required translation, from French to English.

Topics included Africa, South America, India, France, the French Separatists in Canada, the Sino-Soviet split, the role of the neutral nation, and the world population explosion. The student committee was headed by Bev Hardy and Ann Stahl.

A fiery speaker from Uganda.

The Year Brings

Nancy Smith and Bill Davis were chosen by their classmates for the D.A.R. and S.A.R. citizenship awards by an overwhelming majority. They have written essays on citizenship for scholarship competitions in the respective organizations.

Girls' and Boys' State, sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary, are summer leadership training programs. Madison's 1964 representatives were Ann Miller, Lynn Pierce, Nancy Smith, John Crossan, Ed Jernigan, and Mike Powell. This summer Judy Mauldin, Betty Ryan, Betsy Stanley, Don Lemons, and Marion McAmis will attend. The student representatives establish a model government.

Two Madison students, John Crossan and Charles Wadey were semi-finalists in the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Exam. John Crossan was later named as a finalist. This test is taken by Juniors throughout the nation. Out of these, only the very top scorers are chosen for recognition.

"On the Air" . . . the sign lights up and the 3 members of the Madison It's Academic team become television personalities. Ken Cowden, John Crossan, Nancy Smith, and alternate Ted Hazard were chosen after a quick-answer competition at the W.T.T.G. studio. Prior to show time, they were drilled by individual teachers and were pitted against three junior teams in a mock contest. In the regular competition they held the lead for the first two rounds, lost out in the "Grab bag" period.

Outstanding Madison students were recognized for academic and service achievements at the annual awards assembly.

Among those receiving awards was Barbara van der Vate who was given an award for outstanding service to the school. Four other students — Melissa Pollard, Webb Burns, Nancy Smith, and Bill Davis — received citizenship awards.

Downey Brill was named mayor of Vienna.

Mr. Bonner also presented to Edmund Pereira, Madison's foreign exchange student, a farewell gift, a water color of the Supreme Court Building.

The final moment — Seniors step up for their diplomas.

Three hundred and eighty-seven were graduated in exercises held for the class of 1965 on Monday night, June 7.

Commencement speakers were students, Downey Brill and Nancy Smith. The texts of their addresses are on page 217.

The faculty citizenship awards were given to Linda Botticelli and Bill Davis. Linda Johnson was presented the faculty award.

The top ten students were also recognized. (See pages 218, 219).

"To Seek A Newer World..."

For the Individual...

"Come my friends, tis not too late to seek a newer world." In seeking this newer world of Tennyson, what should be the role of each individual? As Thomas Hardy once wrote, "Whatever may be the inherent good or evil of life, it is certain that men make it much worse than it need be." Thomas Hardy, however, was a pessimist. If man makes life worse than it need be, then it follows that he has the ability to make it better than it often is. Thus, why shouldn't the role of each individual be to make his own life as good as possible?

But what does Hardy mean by the good of life? The good must be something characteristic of the individual. And even as an individual changes, his personal goals may also change. When a person attains a sense of satisfaction, a feeling of pride in his personal achievements, hasn't he found the good of life? This satisfaction must not be confused with a Hedonistic state, where material pleasure should be life's chief goal. It doesn't take long to become bored with luxury. Fulfilment in life comes only through living for a purpose.

For an individual's purpose to provide self-satisfaction and a feeling of accomplishment, it has but one requirement. It must be worthwhile to the individual. This reason for existence is personal, perhaps even selfish, and may be completely meaningless to everyone else; but, if it is selfish to take joy in what we are accomplishing, then selfishness is a virtue we should have.

But how can each young man and each young woman find a worthwhile purpose? In the process of life—whether a man is 18 or 40 or 60—he must continually judge himself as an individual. He must strive to attain those goals that provide him pride and satisfaction. As long as we seek the good in life, we have a chance to find it; and, we are looking in the wrong direction, there is always another chance. But we must be able to stop the momentum of our hectic everyday lives and ask ourselves, "Am I doing what I really want to be doing? Am I proud of my personal achievements?" But most important, "Do I look forward to continuing my present way of life?" Only if we keep judging ourselves are we able to completely stop and change our way of life.

One should ask, "Am I proud of the job I have done during the last four years? Or have I slipped a little here and there?" If so, by consciously analyzing why we stumbled where we did we can formulate a new goal in life, if necessary, or we can make changes in our methods of striving for our goals.

Without a worthwhile purpose, people merely struggle from pleasure to pleasure. They simply exist. "What's happening next weekend?" some ask each Monday morning, forfeiting their Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays. Must we live only to be entertained? Such aimless wandering is Hardy's inherent evil of life.

Each of us must strive to discover what will provide personal satisfaction. Then, by working toward this goal, we will experience Hardy's good of life.

Life—make sure you are really living. And you can only make sure if you stop again—and again— and ask yourself:

"Am I proud of what I have done?"

"Am I going to be proud of what I am doing now?"

We live each moment only once. Let us make sure we are proud of what we accomplish.

—Downey Brill

For the Nation...

Today we are confronted with all the complexities of a rapidly changing world. Domestic discord and international crises give rise to disorder and confusion. We have only to scan our newspapers to learn of another outbreak of the racial violence that has plagued our nation for over a decade or of an abrupt renewal of the exhaustive conflict in the jungles of Viet Nam. These conditions will not vanish miraculously nor permanently. If they are to be eliminated, those who will do so are seated in this hall and in others like this one, throughout the entire nation.

In a very few years the direction of this world will be our responsibility. Then, its course will reflect the quality of our vision, the character of our insight, the validity of our purpose. If we, who shall bear this burden of responsibility are to achieve that of which we are capable, it is necessary that we have an understanding of national character and international goals.

In the United States, we profess a fundamental belief in the dignity and worth of the individual personality. Our political philosophy is founded upon no predestined, inflexible design. Against doctrine, we offer experiment; against decree, debate; against dogmatism, pragmatism. Our mode of life is constantly changing; to educate is to change. And each step brings us closer to the realization of a society which will have as its focal point, the individual, his needs and his desires.

In our attempts to insure equal opportunity it is not our desire to create a classless structure. Moreover, our community will not devolve into mediocrity and stagnation. Our national purpose is to achieve, as nearly as possible, a state in which each member can develop without encountering the barriers of discrimination, bigotry and prejudice.

When we attain voting age, it will be our privilege to aid in creating a state which is free of these barriers, and one which conforms, in every way, to the will of the majority. Democracy is an attitude. It will be what we make it, nothing more.

Our nation's objectives do not differ greatly when applied internationally. We must remember, however, that while we hold the democratic system to be the most desireable, other nations, whose cultures seem strange to us, do not share our view. They do not necessarily prefer democracy. What they do desire is the liberty to develop a political philosophy which is consistent with their national character, even as we fashioned our own system, following the American Revolution.

At present, we maintain the power to impose our aims on a majority of the countries of the world. But is it wise to use our strength to accomplish that purpose? Should we not, instead, insure these nations the liberty to determine the will of their people and to translate this will into a favorable political system?

Our goals, domestic and foreign, will not be accomplished upon first attempt, perhaps not in our lifetime. But with continued hard work, determination, and a strong will to succeed, they can be realized. For it is not now, nor is it ever, too late to seek a newer world.

"To strive, to seek, to find, and not to yield."

—Nancy Smith

Ann Miller

‘Foremost Scholar’

Top Ten Receive Academic Awards

Ann Miller was graduated at the top of the class of '65. Anne was named Valedictorian at commencement exercises. Mike Powell was named Salutatorian.

The others (in order) were as follows:

- Charlotte Flinchbaugh
- Ed Jernigan
- Downey Brill
- Donna Marzetta
- John Crossan
- Martha Davis
- Dotty Brown
- Linda Johnson

"Down how many roads among the stars must man propel himself in search of the final secret? The journey is difficult, immense, at times impossible, yet that will not deter some of us from attempting it. We cannot know all that has happened in the past, or the reason for all of these events, any more than we can with surety discern what lies ahead. We have joined the caravan, you might say, at a certain point; we will travel as far as we can . . ."

The 1965 Montpelier is an attempt to capture the restless spirit of change and growth at Madison. Now we pause to thank the many people who have aided in the publication of this book.

We thank Richard Vestal, of the Delmar Publishing Company, who kept the staff in contact with our printers in Charlotte, North Carolina. We thank George Deil of La Mont Studios for all the time and energy he devoted to taking and developing pictures. We thank Geoffrey Gilbert of The Washington Daily News for the special photographs in the opening sections, and also those student photographers who came through in time of crisis. Above all, we wish to express our warm appreciation to Mrs. Blackmon, our faculty sponsor, for her encouragement and her time.
